

The Price of Playing Jund in Magic: The Gathering

Jund is a powerful and popular archetype in Magic: The Gathering, but it can also be expensive to build. The deck's core cards are all relatively pricey, and many of the best cards in the deck are rares or mythics. This can make it difficult for budget-minded players to build a competitive Jund deck.

However, there are a few ways to save money while still building a competitive Jund deck. One way is to focus on buying the deck's core cards first. These cards are the foundation of the deck, and they will always be useful, regardless of the metagame. Once you have the core cards, you can start to add in the more expensive cards, such as rares and mythics.

Another way to save money is to buy singles instead of buying packs. When you buy packs, you are essentially gambling that you will get the cards you need. However, when you buy singles, you can be sure that you are getting the cards you want. This can save you a lot of money in the long run.

Finally, you can also save money by playing in casual formats. In casual formats, the power level of decks is not as high, so you can get away with playing cards that are not as expensive. This can be a great way to learn the game and build your collection without spending a lot of money.

The cost of a competitive Jund deck can vary depending on the specific cards you choose to include. However, the core cards of the deck are all relatively expensive. Here is a breakdown of the cost of some of the most important cards in the deck:

- Tarmogoyf: $50-$60
- Thoughtseize: $20-$25
- Inquisition of Kozilek: $15-$20
- Liliana of the Veil: $40-$50
- Dark Confidant: $30-$40

These are just a few of the most important cards in the deck. The total cost of a competitive Jund deck can easily exceed $500.

If you are on a budget, there are a few ways to save money while still building a competitive Jund deck. Here are a few tips:
